Research areas
Current research focuses on the international and national governance of natural uranium with special focus on the historical evolution of domestic and international safeguards (declarations and inspections). The International Atomic Energy Agency's safeguards system, Australia's and Kazakhstan's uranium practices, and the Greenlandic-Danish uranium history 1965-2014

Publications
Det vi ved (og ikke ved) om Nordkoreas a-våben: Trods et våbenprogram i hastig udvikling er der stadig lang vej igen
Thomasen, G. 28 Aug 2017 Danish Institute for International Studies

Danish-Greenlandic declaration towards uranium trade: The political basis for legislation on dual-use exports is now in place
Vestergaard, C. & Thomasen, G. 26 Feb 2016 Danish Institute for International Studies

Danish-Greenlandic Declaration on Nuclear Safeguards: A stepping stone to legislation
Vestergaard, C. & Thomasen, G. 9 Feb 2016 Danish Institute for International Studies

New uranium deal between Denmark and Greenland clarifies competences: Greenland retains control over mining, environment and safety, Denmark over non-proliferation
Vestergaard, C. & Thomasen, G. 1 Feb 2016 Danish Institute for International Studies

Governing Uranium in the Danish Realm

Zero tolerance: a policy that never really was?
Thomasen, G. 22 May 2014 Danish Institute for International Studies

Nultolerance: en politik der aldrig var?

Between Involvement and Detachment: The Johnson administration's perception of France, West Germany, and NATO, 1963-1969
Thomasen, G. Sep 2013 Copenhagen: University of Copenhagen. 223 p.

Danish positions on key European developments